“ I never met the immediate family of "Grandma Mag", as my son Reggie called her, but I want to share my condolences for the loss of a very special person. She and Reggie had a special bond that not even I can really know aside from standing on the outside looking in. He loved her deeply. They had a relationship that only he and she will ever only truly know. I will miss her, and without a doubt, I know he is feeling the void. But, I also know she has taken her spot in Heaven and is shouting now. She will forever be loved.

“ I have never met the family of "Grandma Mag" as my son called her, but I am sending my condolences for the loss of a very special person. She and my son, Reggie, formed a very special bond that I think only those two could ever express and know how deeply it went. From the outside looking in, I know he loved her very deeply. It hurts to know someone so special has left us, but there's no doubt that she is shouting now. ---Yolanda Hines
