If you cry for me, let it be tears of "Joy". I am no longer in pain and restless nights. I have a new home now. It's a beautiful home to behold. The entrance has gates of pearl and I walk down streets of gold. Every day is filled with joy and praises and I am singing in the Heavenly Choir.

“ You always guided me in the right direction. You always made sure i was ok. I will never forget how excited you was for my birthday. You were more excited than i was. Its so much to say. I love you more than words can express. U will always be in my heart. I will make sure the kids don't forget you. Every year we will do a memorial for you. I still can't believe you're gone. You was my everything. In going to need your strength daddy. So i can continue to be strong. I'm glad that we are all on good terms. I know you are So proud of us. I just wish we would have made up sooner. Better late than never. I just wish you would have seen us reunited. I wish i would have had a chance to talk to you. You was trying to tell me something but you wasn't able too because you had the oxygen mask on. I wish i knew what you were trying to tell me. Tell me when i get to heaven. Im going to continue to live your legacy.now you live through us. Trust me daddy. We will never forget you. We will never forget each other. Family first. Like Leichele said. We are the Dudley Clan. I'm going to legally change my last name. I should've been a Dudley already anyway. I love you daddy. You still is the best father That i can ever ask for.
