Born and raised in Greenville, North Carolina, he attended Pitt County school and graduated from J.H. Rose High School in 1989. His love for cutting hair (started when he was 14) caused him to pursue a career in barbering. Adam was fascinated with the art and intrigued to further study the craft. He enrolled in Harris Barber College in Raleigh, North Carolina and received his license as a licensed barber in 1990. He was able to showcase his skills in numerous barbershops including Al’s, Harris, Precise, Second Born To Cut, Executive Cuts Barbershop and Legends Barbershop in Atlanta, Georgia. In 1993, Adam became the owner and operator of DuBois Barbershop displaying his talents even further as an entrepreneur. In 2018, Adam enrolled at Pitt Community College where he studied Human Services Substance Abuse Technology. Adam enjoyed writing songs, creating music and rapping. He loved reading, spending time with his children, exploring new things and finding ways to maximize his income.

Adam was preceded in death by his beloved mother, Doris Teel, and his father, William “Bo” Nobles.

He is survived by his six children: Tashala Simpson Royster (Quintin, Jr) of Clarksville, TN, Chad Nobles, Imani Dalton of Houston, TX, Joy Godley, Re-Aliti Thomas and Jaylyn Phillips, five grandchildren: Quintin and Sienna

Royster, Ja'Kye Harris, Jy'Ava Edwards, Imilliana Boyd; very special friends,
