“ There were numerous things that I loved about my Aunt Ida, but I think I most enjoyed going fishing with her, which we did a few times, years ago. In addition to all of her other wonderful qualities, when it came to hugging, no one could hug better than she. Her warm embrace conveyed a thousand appropriate messages: I love you; feel better; you are my friend; take care until we meet again. And the warmth of that embrace lingered for several minutes after she released you. I often told my aunt that she was the world's best hugger. I will miss our visits together, our long telephone conversations, I will miss her so much.
