Lonnie, your passing has left a pain that words can hardly express. You left us so suddenly, and my heart hurts deeply trying to accept that you're gone. For over ten years, you weren't just a colleague—you were a true friend, a mentor, and a steady presence during some of the toughest moments of my life. When I was broken, your words of wisdom helped heal me. You always knew what to say, and you never hesitated to show up when it mattered most. I am forever grateful for the guidance, encouragement, and friendship you gave so freely. You will be truly missed, Lonnie, but your impact on my life will never be forgotten. Rest easy, my friend.

“Old man” “I’ll miss you” would be an understatement. You were real with me, u checked on me and my family you gave me fatherly advice even tho it most of the time came with a lil gut check lol. You always believed in me you vouched for me you were always able to talk me off that ledge I’d be on at times lol. We used to “quit” everyday. What we had was deeper than Smithfield we talked about so many things in life besides work. U were more than just a supervisor. It was me and you in the trenches a many of mornings. And no matter how much I was spazzing out you ALWAYS stayed cool. U taught me to remain calm lol...Hearing this news, losing you was a major blow to me and a lot of other people. I know u wouldn’t want us crying or making a big deal over you but dude you going have let us all have it this time. I Can’t believe we have had our last conversation our last debate our last “argument” lol our last “we did it” moment at work our last joke(not for the weak lol). I hate that you’re not here anymore in the physical and I will DEFINITELY not be the same in that place without ya but I am glad u are resting now no more pain no more doctors. Just reggae and unlimited coffee. I love you old man and I’ll always have piece of you in my heart wherever I go...Get you some rest now

“ Lonnie, I'm so lost for words. Thinking of you being no longer here doesn't seem real. You were a big piece of our Prepared Foods family and will be so missed by everyone. You were always someone I could vent to about work, life or whatever. Sharing stories about our kids and their mischievous ways lol, constantly cracking jokes and carrying on with the employees and overall keeping your employees, peers and myself in great spirits all the time. We have worked side by side through the good and bad days for the past almost 5 years. I feel like a piece of me at work is gone now that you're not here. Rest Easy "Lonnie Earl" lol drink a cup of coffee for me in heaven.
