“ Speller Family,

Words often fall short when trying to express the feelings we have when a loved one departs from this life for eternity. However, we can find comfort in knowing that God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in times of trouble. While our sorrow may be deep, we can take solace in the hope that joy will return. My prayer for you is that the peace and strength of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, will comfort you now and in the days, weeks, and months to come. I will miss the smiles, hugs, and conversations we shared. Please accept my deepest condolences.

Words sometimes fail to express the feelings we have when a loved one departs this life and enters eternity. However, we can find comfort in knowing that God is our refuge and strength; He is a very present help in times of trouble.

We can hold onto the assurance that while we may endure sorrow, joy will come in the morning. My prayer for all of you is that the peace and strength of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, will bring you comfort now and in the days, weeks, and months ahead. I will miss her smile, hugs, and the conversations we shared. You fought a good fight.
